Amendment 007

Reason for Amendment:

1. To respond to questions asked by bidders.

Questions and Answers:

Q85. My company is currently putting together a submission for the next quarterly refresh of the ProServices supply arrangement. Bidders are required to provide an example of one project for each category applied against. The information required on each project in the Data Collection Component is clear, but I cannot seem to find any instructions as to what project information is required in the printed submission for each project. Could you please provide guidance on this? For example, is it just the title and scope of the project that is required, or should we also include challenges, impact, end results, deliverables or other such information?

A85. Bidders are not required to provide a hard copy of project summaries to substantiate their ProServices categories. ProServices requires a bidder to provide reference information through the Data Collection Component (DCC) only. This reference information includes a project titles and a number associated with the contract to facilitate the verification process done by the reference.

Please also refer to Question 78 (a) in Amendment 006.

Q86. I am preparing to submit an arrangement in response to Request for Supply Arrangement (RFSA) closing on Sept 30.

I have following questions:

1. As of time of writing this email there have been issued 6 amendments to the original solicitation. Do I need to sign and mail in, all amendments? If yes, do I need to mail in the amendments in it's entirety, including attachment pages as well, or signed first amendment page will suffice?

2. I am a new supplier. I have never been granted TBIPS or TSPS. In the DCC module, under Certifications "Grandfather Certification", do I still need to check "I agree to the statement above" even though I will not be providing any "Grandfather Certification" (as to the table in the amendment 1), or should I leave it unchecked?

A86.

1. No, bidders do not need to print, sign and mail in all amendments.

2. No you do not need to agree to the Grandfather Certification, providing you are not an existing supplier to ProServices, TBIPS, or TSPS (task based only) or submitted a bid that is currently under evaluation for TBIPS or TSPS.

Q87. Hello, I am working on bid No. E60Zt-120001/E, Stream 6. I have answered the questions in the Supplier Response section of the CPSS module.

Question: After completing everything, I cannot see—in any module—where I should enter a financial value or the technical evaluation of our proposal. Could you please provide some information about this? This question also applies to all the bids.

A87. As per the harmonized business rules that resulted from the Professional Services National Procurement Strategy, rates for Supply Arrangements are no longer being collected in the Centralized Professional Services System (CPSS) ePortal.

Regarding other professional services methods of supply, please contact the applicable Supply Arrangement Authority.

Q88. I have noticed that there are 6 amendments to the open RFSA. Do I need to print and sign the front page of each amendment?

A88. No. Please also refer to Question 86.

Q89. I am a brand new supplier bidding on ProServices for the first time. I have not bid on TBIPS or TSPS. Do I need to check off the Grandfather Certification in DCC.

A89. No, providing you are not an existing supplier to ProServices, TBIPS, or TSPS (task based only) or submitted a bid that is currently under evaluation for TBIPS or TSPS.
